Glass Boots To Aid Scadding

HERE IS the kind of glass boots flown from Cincinnati, where they were designed by Drs. G. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: "Inquisitive" wants to know: "Is cheese of any definite health value? When I add it to a heavy meal I get the idea that it does not agree with me but when I eat it with a salad or with a simple meal I seem to digest it readily."

Answer: Cheese is a healthful protein, however it must be remembered that it is a concentrated food. The best way to use cheese is to make it the "meat" part of the meal, serving it with plenty of vegetables, both in the cooked and raw form. You will find it makes an excellent lunch. The commercial cheeses are all wholesome, including cottage cheese.

HOME HELPS IN ARTHRITIS

Most of the treatment for arthritis is usually carried out at home, and at least in the early and middle stages, the hope of recovery depends in a large degree upon the measures the patient uses at home which will help recovery along. It is therefore an advantage to the patient to know something about those things which he can do which will help to relieve his symptoms and which will, at the same time, aid him in getting well.

One of the most helpful measures which may be employed is the hot Epsem salts bath. Use the cheap Epsem salts which you buy by the pound and add one-quarter of a pound to a tub of hot water. Ide quietly in this bath for 15 to 20 minutes, allowing fresh warm water to run in from time to time. This hot bath must be taken before a meal, when the stomach is empty. After the bath, go to hed and remain warmly covered, to prevent chilling. The hot bath will make the patient more comfortable and will also provide relief from the soreness and pain because of the fact that the heat will cause a better blood circulation. The average arthritic patient will, henceft from the bath just described; however, when the patient is weak or advanced in years, the hot Epsem salts bath is better avoided as it may prove too enervating.

It is well known that the arthritic feels better when warm and this is the reason that the patient hugs the fire. Heat in various forms is always gratefully accepted by these patients, who are helped by it. One of the easiest ways to give a heat treatment directly over the painful joint is to wrap the joint in a bath towel which has been folded and then dipped in very warm water. Change the towel every two or three minutes, replacing it with a fresh hot one. Continue in this way for fifteen minutes. This is purely a local treatment but it will aid in relieving the tenderness through the joint in and will. prove of value in promoting a better circulation through the joint tissues. The patient will often state that he derives almost immediate relief from th Fire Chief and Mrs. O. A. ITEMS OF SOCIAL

AND LOCAL INTEREST Mr. and Mrs. Tom Riley surprised their son Frances Riley Sunday afternoon when they entertained at a dinner at their home in honor of his 25th birthday. The guests were school-time friends of young Riley.

Massage is one of the effective remedies which may be used in the treatment of arthritis but must be wisely used in order to get the fullest good from it. During marked soreness, massage over the affected joints is to be omitted as it may prove injurious. Usually, when the one giving the massage is uhskilled, the best plan is to leave the joint alone and to confine the rubbing movements to the muscles which lead away from the joint, also giving a general body, massage. Massage will help to stir up the circulation and will at the same time help to prevent the muscular wasting which comes from a lack of use of the muscles.

Many readers ask about hand blenishes. Since it is rather difficult to cover these miscellaneous problems in a column, we will reprint the most common questions and their answers.

"What can I do for brown spots on my hands?"

These "permanent freckles" are caused by exposure and there is little you can do about them. Use as mild bleach such as lemon juice, or a mixture of one tablespoon fresh peroxide, three drops ammonia and one-half teaspoon glycerim.
